Melissa Rogers,

Would you be able to answer a couple of questions for an article I'm working on for www.accountabilityinthemedia.com ?

I'm doing some follow-up research on the 2009 partial settlement reached between the Mount Vernon Board of Education and the "Doe" family (now known to be the Dennis family).

The settlement stipulated that there were to be two presentations given to employees of the Mount Vernon City Schools on the subject of religion in the public schools. The first presentation was given in August of 2009 by two attorneys. The second presentation, according to the settlement, was to be given by you or a speaker "with similar credentials."

Were you contacted by anyone to speak at the school? Did you give a presentation at the school on the subject of religion in the public schools?

Sincerely,

Sam Stickle

Melissa Rogers,

This is a follow-up to my e-mail of February 25 that requested comment from you regarding whether you spoke at Mount Vernon City Schools or were contacted to speak at the school.

Perhaps you haven't had a chance to respond or the e-mail was overlooked. Please respond as soon as you can. If you do not wish to comment, please let me know that. Thanks.

Sincerely,

Sam Stickle

Mr. Stickle,

I suggest you contact David Milstone at David.Millstone@. I'd be happy to talk to you, but Mr. Milstone knows much more about this matter.

Best regards,

Melissa Rogers

Melissa Rogers,

Thanks for replying.

I did previously send a request for comment to Mount Vernon City Schools' superintendent Steve Short. Short responded and said that he forwarded my questions to attorney Sarah Moore.

I was hoping to find out from you whether you did end up speaking at the school.

Sincerely,

Sam Stickle
